

CBA 2010

July 31 – August 3
Loyola Marymount University, LA, CA
Proposal of a Continuing Seminar

Convenors of the seminar:

Olivier-Thomas Venard, École Biblique de Jérusalem
Kevin Stephens, École Biblique de Jérusalem, Web developer with the help of other members of the École Biblique (Hervé Ponsot, director, Gregory Tatum, & Mark Avila, professors)

THE BIBLE IN ITS TRADITIONS: INTRODUCING THE WEBSITE

Day One: "Dipping one's toes"

The BEST: general reminder of the project.

Presentation of the Demonstration Volume just released: ECOLE BIBLIQUE ET ARCHÉOLOGIQUE FRANÇAISE DE JÉRUSALEM, The Bible in its Traditions: Definitions Followed by Twelve Studies, Leuven: Peeters, 2010.
initial view of the internet collaboration tool.

Day Two: "The dog and pony show" followed by actual experimentation

Detailed demonstration of the website for The Bible in its Traditions

Short explanation of the basic features

Workshop 1: Practical working out of one NT and one OT pericope by seminar participants using the basic features
Questions and answers

Day Three: "Hand to the plow"

Short explanation of the advanced features

Workshop 2: enrichment of the NT and the OT pericope by seminar participants using the advanced features.
Questions and answers

The reference for the pericopes to be used during the workshop will be delivered later on.